

Rijeka Military Tour

In the last days of WWII Rijeka became a scene of one of the biggest battlefields of Europe. 4th Yugoslavian army after weeks of bloody conflicts and battles managed to deliberate the city and push the occupiers further into the north-west. Thousands of people gave lives for the deliberation of the city and that's the reason why Rijeka celebrates its second birthday on the 3rd of May.

We, on the other hand, today have a unique opportunity to learn more about these events in such a compelling, unusual, and adventurous way. By driving around in a true Military vehicle or even a Yugo we're about to break the darkness of old military bunkers "Katarina B" with our headlamps feeling like the characters in these stories. Now check this out: We'll end our Rijeka Military Tour by entering an old "San Giovanni" fort through the shaft ascending with a rope, or by a minute walk around, watching original footage of these days, chatting, and learning more about it while enjoying some great local wine.
